PROFILE

As a highly passionate frontend web developer. I am seeking my first internship position to leverage my coding expertise. I started my IT journey even before high school, coding indie games to play for myself. After the last two years of taking coding-related online courses and boot camps, I feel ready for my next challenge as a web developer, helping your company to implement user-friendly and responsive web applications in front-end development. Also, as a musician, I feel highly creative, skilled in problem-solving, and enthusiastically driven to learn a wide range of programming languages and frameworks.
